

Table 2C

This table contains the historic estimates of population and housing units with related (or contributed) input data from different sources. Previous year estimates have been updated due to a revision in Census Bureau migration estimates. This profile sheet is helpful in evaluating the estimates and important for communications. Please update the name of the contact person, address, phone/fax numbers and email address if there are any changes.

Section I. The Colorado Division of Local Government, State Demography Office (CDLG) estimates show historic county and/or municipal estimates for our population, household, and housing unit variables. The draft population and housing unit estimates for July 1, 2008 are shown under the column heading of 7-1-2008.

Section II. Housing Indicators show on the first line the Thu (Total Housing Unit) changes from the previous fiscal year. The second line are the US Census Bureau building permits units (BPU) based on their annual survey from the previous calendar year with an assumed 6 month construction time lag. The third and fourth lines are locally provided calendar year building permits and fiscal year certificates of occupancy. Where locally provided COUs are available, the COUs are used in place of the BPU's as the best estimate of new housing units. If the figures on the first line are not identical with any of the housing indicators on the second, third or fourth line, the difference could be due to incorporating input data from Sections II, III or IV. For counties, the Thu change is the sum of its subcounty (municipalities and unincorporated) areas.

Section III. Annexation – Any changes due to annexations.

Section IV. Local Canvass/Estimates – Any local input from estimate, survey, or canvassing.

Section V. USCB's Estimates - The U.S. Census Bureau's estimates are included for comparison only. They use different methodologies and procedures for their estimates.
